FUNERAL OF WM. SIMPSON.

It Will Probably Take Place Next Monday.

The funeral of William Simpson, who fied at his home, 429 West Fortythird street, yesterday, will probably take place next Monday. Simpson was well known in the carpet trade, having been engaged in since he was eighteen years old. He was born in 1861. From 1873 to 1887 he was connected with H. B. Claffin & Co. He then began, under the firm name of Simpson & McAdlister, to manufacture carpets in Philadelphia. In 1890 he returned to New York and entered the retail carpet and furniture business in the firm of McLain, Simpson & Co., Thirty-seventh street and Eighth avenue. He belonged to the Masonic order in Philadelphia. He leaves a widow and two children.

TROLLEY CARS CRASH.

Several People Hurt in a Collision Near Oakdale, Pa.

(By Associated Press.)
HAZELTON, Pa., Aug. 10.-A num her of people were injured, some of them seriously, in a collision between two rolley cars on the electric road, near rolley cars on the electric road, near Oakdale, yesterday. When the collision occurred the cars were going at a high rate of speed, in opposite directions. The passengers in the car bound for this city, which was an open one, saw the danger and jumped, falling among the rocks that lined the road.

The cars came together with a terrific crash, throwing those who remained in them to the floor, and splintering the front of the cars into kindling wood. Not a single passenger escaped injury, and doctors were called from Ebervale to attend the wounded.

the gas jet near the window burning. The early morning breeze had blown the lace curtain into the flame and it caught quickly, causing the blaze.

The awning of the window also caught fire, making it appear for an instant as if the whole interior was ablaze.

When the firemen arrived they found it difficult to make a passageway to the fire, the halls being strewn with trunks and other baggage.

The blockade was made more complete by the guests, who were lammed together so closely on the stairway in their frantic efforts to reach the street that the firemen had to wait until nearly all had escaped.

The hiaze was extinguished with a few pails of water. An inspection of the furniture had been badly damaged. George P. Shotwell, the manager of the hotel, appraises the damage at $500.

It was long after 7 o'clock before order was restored and the guests returned to their rooms.

The building adjoins Proctor's Theatre on the west. It is an old structure, four stories high. Had the flames had a start of a few minutes more it is possible that the theatre might have been burned.

Richard Croker had been with her except at short intervals since Monday. Her early home was at Bally Walter, Ireland, the country residence of her only surviving brother, Richard Welsted. She married early in life Eyre C. Croker, who, having no profession, on arrival in this country, adopted that of veterinary surgeon, for which his general knowledge of horses fitted him. He served with Gen. Bickles's brigade during the war in that capacity.

Besides her brother, Mrs. Croker leaves three sons and four daughters—Henry, George S., Richard W., Mrs. Warren, of Great Neck, L.
